

Matthew Schooley, City Manager, opened the 2021 Leadership Planning Session of the Alma City Commission to order at 5:32 p.m. at the Alma Public Library.

Commissioners present: Allman, Harrington, Mapes, Piccolo, Pitts, Stahl, and Wernick (all appearing via Zoom).
Commissioners absent: none.
Also present: Kathy Roslund, Brett Baublitz, Dave Ringle, Mark Williams, Hannah Post, Harold House, Brooke Siefka, Heather Therrien, Lorrie Taylor, Matt Schooley, Aeric Ripley, Jim Bailey, Grace Catlin, and Kendra Overla.

City Manager Schooley explained that this meeting is typically held as a goal setting session, but since last year was different than any prior year, he wanted to approach this meeting differently as well. He said he had asked department heads to prepare a presentation that would showcase their department, explaining how 2020 had been for them, and what their goals are for the future.

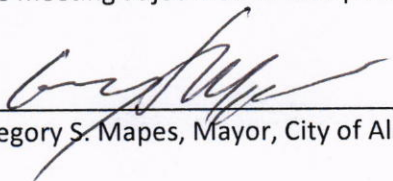

The following departments provided presentations, including power points and videos:

Assessing
Public Services
Fire
Police
Human Resources
Library
Transit
Planning/Zoning
Finance

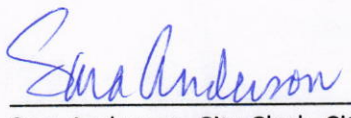

Department heads answered questions from Commissioners during the course of their presentations, and after, if there were questions.

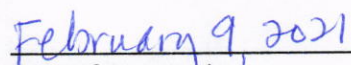

Schooley observed we haven't been able to address all the things on the 2020 Priorities list because of the pandemic, but we have made some improvements in technology at city buildings. He commented that, in spite of the pandemic, the city was able to make progress in several different areas, and we will continue to work to move forward. He will make adjustments to Alma Leadership Priorities List and submit them for Commission approval. He thanked everyone for their attention and their efforts.

The meeting adjourned at 7:56 p.m.
